The James Island PSD Firefighters would like to thank the citizens and visitors to James Island who helped us raise $18,765.64 for the Carolina Children's Charity this year. We appreciate your patience and you watching out for us while we stood in the streets "filling the boot" throughout James Island. This is the most we have ever collected for the charity. Please keep in mind that all of your donations stay right here in the Low Country. These donations can help local families with something as little as a co-payment for an insurance premium, pay for a wheelchair, or even a major procedure. Thank you again and we hope to have your support again next year.

New Child Seat Guidelines

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has revised its child restraint guidelines to be categorized by age rather than by type of child seat in order to keep pace with the latest scientific and medical research and the development of new child restraint technologies.

Under the new guidelines, issued today, NHTSA is advising parents and caregivers to keep children in each restraint type, including rear-facing, forward-facing and booster seats, for as long as possible before moving them up to the next type of seat. For instance, the safety agency recommends using the restraints in the rear-facing position as long as children fit within the height and weight limits of the car seat as established by the manufacturer. The rear-facing position reduces stresses to the neck and spinal cord and is particularly important for growing babies.

Additional recommendations for child seat use from NHTSA include the following:

- Always read child seat manufacturers' instructions and the vehicle owner's manual for important information on height and weight limits and how to install the car seat using the seat belt or the LATCH system.
- All children under 13 should ride in the back seat.
- Children in rear-facing car seats should never ride in front of an active passenger air bag.
